Castro, Mikoyan Statements

Moscow TASS in English to Europe 1940 GMT 4 November 1962--L

(Text) Havana--"We are Marxists-Leninists, we are friends of the Soviet Union." These words pronounced by Prime Minister Fidel Castro in his radio and television speech on 1 November expressed the sentiments of all Cuban people.

The Cuban people fully support the policy of their government and proclaim the unshakable friendship between the Soviet and Cuban peoples.

The newspaper, MUNDO, in an editorial devoted to the Cuban visit of First Deputy Chairman of the USSR Council of Ministers A.I. Mikoyan writes that before departing from New York Mikoyan made a statement in which he stressed that the Soviet Union has not absolved itself of responsibility for rendering assistance to the Cuban people.

Mikoyan's statement, the newspaper goes on, leaves no doubt that the Soviet Union is our friend and that it supports our just hopes. The bonds of friendship between our peoples are unbreakable. We, Cubans, always see in the Soviet Union a magnanimous brother who renders us enormous selfless assistance. The alliance, close cooperation, and mutual assistance between socialist countries must be and is unshakable, the newspaper stresses.
